Foreword

Foreign aid continues to play a significant role in supporting socio-economic development of Nepal. The Government of Nepal primarily receives grants and loan assistances. Under the grants, some Technical Assistances (TA) are also received from the various Development Partners (DPs) for institutional strengthening, capacity development, human resource development, provisions of services of experts and consultants, transfer of technical know-how and skills and preparation and development of projects and programs. The Government of Nepal is committed towards realizing maximum achievements by mobilizing the TA in line with the country's development needs and priorities.

Apart from bilateral and multilateral development partners, the development assistance channeled through various International Non-Governmental Organizations (INGOs) also constitutes a significant share of foreign aid in Nepal. Various INGOs are implementing programs in partnership with Government agencies, local bodies or the local NGOs and also through active community participation by empowering and making aware the poor, excluded and marginalized people.

Amid concerns raised by various quarters of the society about the mobilization of both grants and loans including TA in general and effectiveness in particular, and as part of own efforts to streamline inflows of foreign aid with the country system, the Government remains committed to make foreign aid related data and other transactions fully transparent. In addition, the Government has been continuously reorienting its efforts to ensure compliance of foreign aid mobilization with the aid effectiveness principles.

This statement contains a summary description of projects and programs being implemented in the country supported from the Development Partners which are not reflected in the Annual Income and Expenditure Estimates (Red Book) of the Government. Furthermore, during the preparation of this book, Aid Management Platform (AMP) a database of the International Economic Cooperation Coordination Division of the Ministry of Finance, and data received from both development partners and sectoral ministries have also been used as the primary sources of information. In addition, this book also contains a brief description of the programs being implemented and resources channeled through INGOs for the Fiscal Year 2012/13.

I believe that this publication will be useful to Government agencies and DPs to monitor the TA programme, and to all other intellectuals, professionals, economists, researchers, scholars, teachers, students, and other interested individuals for their use.

Shanker Prasad Koirala
Finance Minister

2013, April

Message

The Government of Nepal (GoN) is highly committed to the transparency and accountability of resources received through foreign assistance. Since Technical Assistance (TA) and INGO assistance hold a significant volume in the overall aid resources, this Statement of Technical and Other Assistance is an attempt to inform all concerned the overall picture of TA and INGO assistance in Nepal. This is a modest endeavor of the Government to make information handy to everyone. Though much more is yet to be done in this regard, the GoN is committed to explore further ways to channelize these resources in national interest drawing lessons from past experiences.

We are well aware of the fact that different corners of the society have raised serious concerns like the lack of transparency, abundance of supply led assistance, utilization of significant amount of aid in advisory and other assistance in the name of capacity development, channelization of aid outside country system and so on. These are the serious concerns that the GoN is gravely scrutinizing. The Government is committed to address these issues and has been continuously working on this.

This product reflects the status of TA utilization and aims at exploring further ways for Government agencies and development partners to streamline TA resources on result oriented path by making it demand driven and aligning it to national plans and priorities. Not forgetting, the overall status of INGO assistance in Nepal would also draw the attention of all concerned to make it more effective, accountable, transparent, demand driven and result oriented.

Finally, I would like to thank all the concerned GoN officials who contributed to prepare this useful product. The whole team of International Economic Cooperation Coordination Division (IECCD) of Ministry of Finance deserves special appreciation for leading this venture. Particularly, I would like to thank Mr. Madhu Kumar Marasini, IECCD Chief, for shouldering the responsibility of this endeavor.

Thank you.

Shanta Raj Subedi
Finance Secretary
