Nepal Co-hosted Side Event in the Eve of Senior Level Meeting of GPEDC in New York

On 12 July 2019 the Ministry of Finance of Nepal, together with co-host Bangladesh, convened a consultative side event on the eve of the Senior Level Contd P5
The principles of effective development cooperation – country ownership, focus on results, inclusive partnerships, and transparency and mutual accountability – have been agreed at the global level and have formed a foundation for the relationship at country level between different partners with a stake in development cooperation. Progress on these commitments has been monitored over time. The Global Partnership for Effective Development Cooperation (GPEDC) is where different actors hold each other accountable for commitments on effective development cooperation. It also provides a forum for dialogue and collective exploration of emerging priorities and effectiveness issues.

The GPEDC’s Senior-Level Meeting (SLM) took place on 13-14 July, ahead of the ministerial segment of the High Level Political Forum. The SLM considered the current situation of the global development effectiveness agenda and encouraged action and renewed commitment to effectiveness as core to accelerating progress on sustainable development.

In capacity of member of the Steering Committee of the GPEDC representing the constituency of Asian recipient countries, Nepal has volunteered to organize a side event in the eve of SLM of the GPEDC held in New York in July 13-14, 2019. After Nepal participated in the 17th Steering Committee Meeting, held in Kampala of Uganda in March 26-27, 2019, Nepal’s willingness to organize this event has taken momentum. Upon Nepal’s request, Bangladesh (Co-chair of GPEDC) agreed to co-host this event. Finally, Nepal and Bangladesh have successfully co-hosted the event “Taking Stock of Effectiveness Principles at Country Level” on July 12, 2019 in New York.

As the SLM sought to further commitments on the global effectiveness agenda, it was critical that the deliberations were anchored in country-level reality and reflected the priorities of partner countries. The side event provided a forum for consultation with countries in Asia-Pacific with respect to the effectiveness agenda. The primary objective of the side event was to capture the priorities of these countries on key issues being discussed at the SLM, thus advocating for their concerns to be reflected in the SLM dialogue. The side event was structured around a set of discussion questions, framed to meet this objective and promote dialogue. The outcome was a set of messages reflecting the priorities of countries in the region with respect to the effectiveness agenda. Key discussion questions were explored by inviting perspectives from several other speakers, senior representatives from governments of other countries in the region. Prepared remarks by the speakers were supplemented by open discussion and inputs from other participants, in order to ensure a representation of views from participants.

Finally, in the SLM, Nepal has strongly put five key messages for actions around use of country system for quality aid, it’s rapidly changing landscape, validation of the relevance of GPEDC as knowledge sharing platform, relevance of its monitoring survey and engagement of all development actors, including private sector in development. Nepal, as other Asian recipient countries, has been invigorated to explore aid effectiveness principles on ground.

Wish you all a very Happy Dashain of this year!
Thank you!

Meeting (SLM) of the Global Partnership for Effective Development Cooperation (GPEDC) in New York, which took place on 13-14 July. As the GPEDC’s Senior Level Meeting reaffirms global commitments on development effectiveness, the side event provided a forum for consultation with countries in the Asia-Pacific region to capture country-level perspectives, towards ensuring that the priorities of countries in the region are reflected in the deliberations of the SLM. Nepal, a member of the GPEDC Steering Committee representing recipient countries in Asia, organized the side event to ensure that the views of their constituency are well represented in the GPEDC global dialogue.

The side event, organized with the support of UNDP and DFID, brought together over 40 participants, including government representatives from 10 countries in the Asia-Pacific region, as well as from civil society, private sector, parliaments, multilateral organizations, and cooperation provider countries. A panel of eight distinguished speakers featured government representatives from Nepal, Bangladesh, Cambodia, Indonesia, Myanmar, the Philippines, Japan, and UNDP.

In Nepal, there is a significant financing gap to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The National Planning Commission has estimated that the average investment requirement is approximately Rs 2,025 billion per year, or about 48% of GDP on average, with Official Development Assistance (ODA) expected to shoulder about 18% of this financing requirement.

In his remarks, Finance Secretary Mr. Rajan Khanal noted, “Representing an LDC, let me emphasize that the core commitments of aid effectiveness matter to us, in very concrete and practical ways. To partner countries like Nepal, the quality of aid still matters.” He also appreciated the role of the GPEDC, stating, “the commitments and exchange of experiences on development effectiveness at global level underpins our efforts at national level to improve the effectiveness of development cooperation”.

“Achieving the Sustainable Development Goals requires financial resources on a very large scale, but financing alone is not enough”, said Ms. Claire Van der Vaeren of UNDP’s Regional Bureau for Asia and the Pacific. “Effectiveness, the question of how we do development, is just as important. It is critical that resources are used within a framework of accountability; that there is strong ownership by partner countries and a focus on results; and that development is pursued through inclusive partnerships.”

Mr. Shreekrishna Nepal, Joint Secretary of the International Economic Cooperation Coordination Division of Nepal’s Ministry of Finance spoke in the closing session of the Senior Level Meeting on 14 July, and shared key messages and expressions of action which emerged from the side event discussions.

A new boost for fiscal federalism in Nepal

The World Bank has renewed support to the Government of Nepal to strengthen the country’s efforts towards fiscal federalism and improving public financial management under the Second Programmatic Fiscal and Public Financial Management Development Policy Credit Project. The $100 million project is geared towards the accomplishment of reform actions coordinated by the Ministry of Finance which was built on reforms supported under the first Development Policy Credit project. The agreement was signed today at the Ministry of Finance by Secretary, Mr. Lal Shanker Ghimire and the World Bank Country Manager for Nepal, Mr. Faris H. Hadad-Zervos.

“We are thankful for the support of the World Bank and development partners in the ongoing and dynamic process of federalism in Nepal,” stated Secretary Mr. Lal Shanker Ghimire. “Coordination and capacity are one of the primary pillars for the success of Nepal’s three-tier government and it is important we build accountability with responsibility in our pursuance of the country’s development objectives.”

This project supports reforms to advance Nepal’s federalism agenda, under two pillars. The first pillar supports measures to establish fiscal federalism through various legislations, policies and regulations. An umbrella legislation, enacted at the federal level, will guide budget execution and improve the accounting and financial reporting framework, and will form the basis of model laws to be adopted by local governments, to govern their budget processes.

The second pillar supports reforms to strengthen the policy framework for public financial management at the subnational levels. This will be achieved through legislation and regulations that govern the budget cycle and promotes transparency and accountability to citizens, guides preparation of the Medium-Term Expenditure Framework, strengthens expenditure control, and supports the development of a revenue collection system. These reforms also include gender responsive budgeting, and measures to address Nepal’s vulnerability to climatic shocks and improve disaster risk management.

“We support the government’s Renewable Energy subsidy policy 2016 and the effective implementation of this Project are expected to create opportunities for this model to succeed in providing energy access to Nepal’s rural areas. The second pillar supports reforms to strengthen the policy framework for public financial management at the subnational levels. This will be achieved through legislation and regulations that govern the budget cycle and promotes transparency and accountability to citizens, guides preparation of the Medium-Term Expenditure Framework, strengthens expenditure control, and supports the development of a revenue collection system. These reforms also include gender responsive budgeting, and measures to address Nepal’s vulnerability to climatic shocks and improve disaster risk management.

“This project builds on the reforms supported by the first Development Policy Credit to establish the legal frameworks to govern resource allocation across the three tiers of government and guide operations of local governments. It also supported measures to strengthen budget execution and public financial management systems at the federal level.

Agreement with ....

(ESCOs). These specialized ESCOs will crowd-in financing capacity to develop, build, own and operate renewable mini-grid project. Commercial banks are a key partner who will assume credit risk of the subproject loans to ESCOs once they are eligible and selected to participate in the Project by AEPC. The credit facility component of the project is in turn supported by a technical assistance component for stronger project development support to the mini-grid sector, ESCOs and partner banks to ensure sustainable implementation beyond the life the project.

The second pillar supports reforms to strengthen the policy framework for public financial management at the subnational levels. This will be achieved through legislation and regulations that govern the budget cycle and promotes transparency and accountability to citizens, guides preparation of the Medium-Term Expenditure Framework, strengthens expenditure control, and supports the development of a revenue collection system. These reforms also include gender responsive budgeting, and measures to address Nepal’s vulnerability to climatic shocks and improve disaster risk management.

“The Government of Nepal accords high priority on the renewable energy sector and the world Bank Group supports the government’s energy sector through investments in both grid and off-grid energy.

This project aims to support more than 25 mini-grid subprojects and add new generation capacity of 3.9 MW, while rehabilitating and restoring the capacity of existing mini-grids.

The improved policy environment through the government’s Renewable Energy subsidy policy 2016 and the effective implementation of this Project are expected to create opportunities for this model to succeed in providing energy access to Nepal’s rural areas.
